THERE'S WORK ENOUGH TO DO.

The black-bird early leaves its rest To meet the smiling morn, And gather fragments for its nest From upland, wood and lawn. The busy bee, that wings its way 'Mid sweets of varied hue, And every flower, would seem to say-"There's work enough to do."

The cowslip and the spreading vine, The daisy in the grass. The snowdrop and the eglantine, Preach sermons as we pass; The aut within its cavern deep Would bid us labor too, And writes upon his tiny heap-"There's work enough to do."

The planets, at their Maker's will. Move onward in their cars. For Nature's wheel is never still-Progressive as the stars! The leaves that flutter in the air. And Summer's breezes woo, One solemn truth to man declare -"There's work enough to do."

Who then can sleep when all around Is active, fresh and free? Shall man-creation's lord-be found Less busy than the bee? Our courts and alleys are the field, If men would search them through, That best the sweets of labor yield, " And work enough to do."

The sottish drunken win, To rescue all the children, deep In ignorance and sin : To help the poor, the hungry feed,

To have a heart for those who ween.

To give him coat and shoe; To see that all can write and read-"Is work enough to do." The time is short—the world is wide,

And much has to be done : This wond rous earth in all its pride, Will vanish with the sun! The moments fly on lightning's wings, We've none to waste on foolish things-"There's work enough to do."

THE LOST BOY.

The editor of the Sandusky Mirror was formerly Warden of the Ohio Penitentiary. He gives the following as one of the incidents which occurred while he had control of that institution :-

"I had been a few months in control of the prison when my attention was attracted to, and a deep interest felt, in the numerous boys and young men confined therein, and permitted to work in the same shops with old and hardened convicts. This interest was increased on every evening, as I He foolishly consented, with high hopes of and kissed him-wept and prayed !-grasp. saw them congregate in gangs, marching to their silent meals, and thence to their gloomy bedrooms, which are more like living sepulchres with iron shrouds, than sleeping apartments. These young men and boys, being generally the shortest in height, brought up the rear of the companies, as they marched to the terrible 'lock step,' and consequently most easily attracted attention. To see many youthful forms and bright countenances mingled with the old and hardened scoundrels, whose visages betokened vice, malice and crime, was sickening to the soul. But there was one among the boys, a lad of about seventeen years of age, who had particularly attracted my attention; not from anything superior in his countenance or general appearance, by the look of despair which ever sat upon his brow, and the silent uncomplaining manner in which he submitted to all the hardships and degradations of prison life. He was often comthought unnecessarily, for light and trivial offences against the rules of propriety; yet he seldom had any excuse or apology, and plained of by both officers and men, and I never denying a charge. He took the rep mard and once the punishment, without a tear or a murmur, almost as a matter of course, seeming thankful that it was no worse. He had evidently seen better days, and enjoyed the light of home. parents, and friends, if not the luxuries of life. But the light of hope seemed to have gone out-his health was poor-his face pale-his frame fragile and no fire beamed in his dark gray eye ! I thought every night as I saw him march to his gloomy bed, that I would go to him and learn his historybut there were so many duties to perform, so much to learn and do, that day after day passed and I would neglect him-having merely learned that his name was Arthur Lamb, and that his crime was burglary and larceny, indicating a very bad boy for one so young. A TRUE TALE.

One beautiful Indian Summer day, in harge. I learned that what Arthur had the autumn of 1844, a stranger appeared stated was true, that his only crime was in the streets of Hanover, N. SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 11, 1855.

It is very satisfactory to know that the streets of this city will in time be put in the most perfect order, for there has been need enough for some such improvement, and the streets that are nov shoroughly repaired look all the better as contrasted with the many ways that still call aloud for help.— There is Bellevue street, which for a number of years has been anything but attractive, and the want of a curb was much felt by pedestrians at the season of the year when the street is thronged with vehieles. It has now a handsome walk on both sides as far as the Ocean House, and a few days since we observed that the stones for the curbing of the lower portion were on the ground, and the work of grading the remainder of the street will soon be andertaken. This is a heavy item, but a small portion of which, however, falls on the city, as the owners have agreed to pay one-third on each side, and the other third will be met by the city .-Mann Avenue not long since was almost impassable; it is now one of the most attractive streets in the city, owing to the perfect grade, and fine walks the entire length. Frank street was wholly deserted until it was put in order this spring. And great improvements are also observable in Tanner street. where, of all places, the attention of the Street Commissioner was most needed. The man-trap or gully for the little stream that flows down on the west side, is to be covered over, and this, with the other Improvements will increase the value of the numerous small tenements in that quarter. Of the change for the better observable in the Parade, Washington Square and Touro Park, we have already spoken .-All these improvements in the highways of the city tend to the health and comfort of the inhabitants and add to Newport's other attractions. Much as has been accomplished there is still more to do, and especially is there need of repairs in Thames and Epring streets, where the paving was torn up to lay the gas pipes. The ground in the trenches has settled and the cobble stones have in many places started, so that it seems imperative that something should be done to prevent a larger break.

It is announced officially, that three splendid prizes, the least of which is twenty-five dollars, in gold, will be offered to the ladies of Seneca County, Ohio, at the next annual fair, in October, for the swiftest running on foot-the fastest lady on foot to take the prize. This is the natural fruit of the efforts made of late years to drag woman before the public in a novel and anything but lady-like manner; for the cake of giving notoriety to fairs, exhibitions, and the like. We have had her brought before us as a lecturer, physician and lawyer; for the entertainment of the rabble she has been induced to ride steeple-chases over the country, and in the same manner she has been placed on exhibition at BAR-NUN'S Museum, like a brood-mare. Since then Barnum has offered a premium of one thousand dollars for the most beautiful woman in the United States-the candidates of course to remain on exhibition in his museum for at least a week; and now she is to be persuaded into a foot-race, for the amusement of the mob that will gather at the Seneca Co. fair. If these two last efforts of the speculators are successful, we shall not be surprised at anything more extravagant; nor must woman complain of a want of that respect which has always been her just due, if she willingly submits to the wishes of those who would place her in an unbecoming position, The sphere of woman is well enough defined; for that alone she is fitted, and while she is content to fulfil her mission in that station of life in which it has pleased God to call her, she will never lack the respect and esteem of the opposite sex : otherwise, she must expect that in this, as in every other case the adage-familiarity breeds contempt-will be fully verified.

Last year at this time we were suffering from severe drought; this year we have had a succession of the great quantity of water that had fallen till we examined a table furnished the New York Tribune from which we gather that the rainy term has exceeded that of any other year for a period of sixtyseven years. During that length of time in but five years was there more than four consecutive days of rain in July, and of these the highest number was seven days, in 1835. This year there were twelve tinually falling impedes the farmer, but the crops generally are remarkably good and have been suc cessfully gathered, with only here and there a loss, which is small compared with the amount saved; while on the other hand, during a dry season, there is always much sickness and loss of life from sudder and fatal diseases. A year ago at this time the cholera was doing its terrible work all around us. but we have yet to hear of a case this season this side of Cincinnati.

There is a demand now for horses and vehicles, and everything in the way of a turn-out is rubbed up and let for all that it is worth. But we are sorry to see that a due regard is not always had to the fee ings of the horses, for of late several have passed us that were badly chafed, the raw places were bleeding, and the pain the animals endured was greatly aggravated by the flies that clung to the spot. A merciful man is merciful to his beast, and he who is not willing to spare his horse is no worthy to possess one.

Should there not be some law to regulate this, making it encumbent on the police to send every horse back to the stable that they find in an unfit otate to travel.

From every quarter we hear and read of a decline In the price of produce, but the change is not felt here; nor will it, we opine, till the season is over and the crowd that is now eating up everything brought into the place, is dispersed and on their way to their different homes. One day last week the Pier boat landed here a ton of poultry, and besides this supply there is a constant gathering of chickens, old hens, roosters, goese and ganders, ducks and drakes, turkeys, pigeon and squabs-old, young, and half-batched, to supply meats for those whose appetites are too delicate to eat beef, mutton and lamb that costs only twenty cents a pound.

The body of an unknown man, supposed to have been knocked overboard from some vessel or steam boat, was found in the water at the head of Long Wharf, on Wednesday, and the verdict of the Jury, under Coroner Shaw, was in accordance with the facts. The body had been in the water a few days, and there was a severe contusion over one eye.— There was no marks on his clothing, and his pockets contained something less than a dollar in change, two knives and a pipe. He appeared to be a foreigner and about forty years of age.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE. WILL BE SO LD by Auction on Wednesday, Semptember 5th on the premises, at noon, by W Semptember 5th on the premises, at noon, by order of the Administrator and Guardian, and under direction of the Hon, Court of Probate of the City and County of Newport, the valuable Farm in Charlestowa, Washington County, known as the Champlin Farm, containing 705 acre.

The Farm is situated on the post-road, about 12 miles from Westerly, and 6 from the Stonington Railroad. It can be reached from the Richmond Switch; and the post-road passes directly through the jarm. The wooded portion consists rough the farm. The wooded portion consists at least 175 acres of oaks, which will average 50 cords to the acre, and some of it will cut 50 cords. The remainder of the farm, with the exception of a few swampy places near the poud, is ception of a few awampy places near the pond, is under cultivation, and is free from stone.—Watcheag Pond is a fresh water sheet; Ninegret Pend, on the South, connects with the sea. This pond which separates the farm from the beach, is at this point about a hundred rods wide. On it there is a new scow, belonging exclusively to the farm, capable of carrying a loaded team from the beach, shortening the distance to the shore four or five miles, and affording facilities for carting fish and sea-weed. The house stands high, and from the terrace there is a fine view over a greater portion of he farm, taking in Point Judith and Watch Hill Lights, Block Island and an extended nea view. The out-buildings are convenient, and the barn will hold fifty tons of hay.
